- Little Johnny's Corner-

Little Johnny Goldfish

Little Johnny's was in the garden filling a hole when his neighbor peered over the fence. Interested in what he was up to, he politely asked, what are you up to there, Little Johnny.

My goldfish died, replied Little Johnny tearfully, without looking up. And I've just buried him.

The neighbor was concerned, that's an awfully big hole for a goldfish, isn't it? As Little Johnny patted down the last heap of earth he then replied, that's because he's inside your cat.

IN QUIET COMMUNION

Take and eat as you remember
 The sacrifice that I made,
 The bread and wine that represents
 The life I willingly gave
 My body beaten and pierced with nails,
 My blood poured from my side,
 For it was the only way for you
 To receive eternal life
 As you sit and reflect a moment,
 Confess your sins to me
 Let my blood cleanse you again
 So you will truly be free
 And if you need a healing touch,
 Reach out to me today,
 For in this quiet communion time
 Your healing is already made
 Then when you're ready to partake,
 Be thankful and be glad,
 For you, my child, have many blessings
 That others do not have
 So let this communion time extend
 To bless somebody else,
 Reaching out to touch a life
 That may be in need of help
 But don't let this time just pass you by,
 Not letting it touch your need,
 For I've ordained this communion time
 So you can fellowship with me.

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a profound impact on mental health, with a new study suggesting that feelings of paranoia might be associated with mask mandates. Yale University researchers, who published their findings in the journal Nature Behavior, also noted that paranoia was heightened in states with low adherence to mask mandates.
